MiMedx – No Comment

MiMedx takes down all short selling commentary from company Box server.

Viceroy are happy to report that, as of this morning, MiMedx has removed “50 incriminating “short selling commentary” responses to critics, including Viceroy Research, Aurelius Value, Marc Cohodes, journalists and employees. This is now the message you will see when trying to access documents from MiMedx’s short selling commentary links:

These short selling responses were unlawful, incredibly misleading and comical, including comments that internal controls were not an issue, and financial accounts did not need to be restated.

MiMedx also publicly branded short sellers as criminals without evidence. We believe the removal of these responses from MiMedx’s webpage is also incriminating.

Here is one of our favorite excerpts:

Unfortunately for MiMedx management, we understand their business much better than they do, apparently. Viceroy have archives which include every short seller response since inception. The regulators also have this archive – we provided it to them.

Of continued concern, MiMedx announced plans (and in some instances is approved) to market their dangerous products overseas. Viceroy have already begun reaching out to international regulators in order to present evidence of malpractice and oppose the introduction of these products.

We look forward to seeing this story unfold and believe this is the tip of the iceberg in MiMedx’s unwinding.
